Parent/Guardian Memo #3

"The best and most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen or even touched - they must be felt with the heart." – Unknown

Dear Parents and Guardians,

As we have reached the end of this grading period, your child's report card is now available. This is an important opportunity to celebrate their hard work and progress, as well as identify areas for continued growth. We encourage you to take some time to review the report card together with your child and have an open, constructive conversation.

When discussing the report card, we suggest focusing on the positive achievements first. Acknowledge the effort they've put into their studies and highlight any areas where they have excelled. Recognizing their successes builds confidence and motivates them to keep striving for excellence.

At the same time, it's important to address areas where improvement may be needed. Use this as an opportunity to gently discuss challenges and create a plan for addressing them. Encourage your child to set specific goals for their improvement and offer your support in reaching those goals. Whether it's extra practice at home, seeking additional help from teachers, or setting up a more consistent study routine, your involvement and encouragement will play a key role in their success.

Your positive and proactive approach in discussing the report card will reinforce the value of hard work, responsibility, and perseverance. Please know that we are here to work alongside you in helping your child achieve their best.

If you have any questions or would like to discuss the report card in further detail, please don't hesitate to reach out to your child's teacher. Together, we can ensure your child continues to grow and thrive in their learning journey.

Warm regards,

Mr. Docherty
